

FROM THE DESK OF JILL JONES-SODERMAN

CYBER BULLYING – PHASE 2

Cyber bullying – false, defamatory, libelous, statements meant to cause total destruction to the business and/or personal character/identity of the targeted subject. The conscious, vicious, malevolent intent of the obsessed writer/communicator is evident by the continued repetitive nature of attacks and the laser focus of statements meant to be exposing and humiliating. Usually, bullying statements are predated by some kind of command to do something or pay money in order to stop the hurled threat from being actualized. One knows that any accommodation will be met with further demands and manipulations with an ultimate actualization of the threats hurled .

The gross nature of comments that arise from the imagination of the attacker and the attacker's fantasized rabid quarrel arise directly out of the repetition compulsion traumas of the persons past. The current stand in - by virtue of the transference phenomena that has attached to subject matter or person whom has caught the attention of the raging obsessed bully is caught up in an all encompassing battle which attaches to the target, like taffy that has not congealed.

However, the second generation of cyber bullies whom have carved out their own predatory event can then absorb, over take, adopt the accusations of the primary bully, using the primary bully's accusations to advance their own malicious agenda. The secondary bully may in fact engage the statements of the primary bully as an opportunistic event to advance the predatory opportunity accidentally encountered.

We have found that the complaints of the secondary bully most often has to do with procuring compensation under false/non existent circumstances, but the preceding insinuations have created a fertile ground for the cyber bully's “whisper campaign” based on a caricature of probable cause evidence.

This subject is of great interest to us as it is the exact mechanism that haunts our protective parent clients whom are accused of horrendous crimes against their children, accused by the exact perpetrator of crimes that the perpetrator is inflicting. We will be writing about this subject matter under the rubric of “WHISPER CAMPAIGNS “. Baseless, without hard evidence, whisper campaigns captivate the imagination, perhaps because of the scandalous content and secrets that are apart of everyone's unconscious, or not so unconscious minds.

Cyber bullying and whisper campaigns destroy innocent lives.