

FROM THE DESK OF JJS

HOPE FOR PARENTS OF CHILDREN ALIENATED!!!!

From about age 3-9, my son and I were all but inseparable. Then the divorce came and, well, that interfered with our time together QUITE A BIT, to put it mildly. We spent the summers of 2008, 2009, & 2010 together, and in December 2010 I visited him at College.

I went with him back to Austin in January 2011. From May/June 2011-October 28, 2015, my son did not speak to me at all. He did not even invite me to his Harvard graduation. Then my mother died, and as she predicted, the day after she died, he started calling me, and we (somewhat tentatively at first) reestablished a relationship....

From Amsterdam, he calls me several times a day. He wants to talk so much it actually interferes with me doing anything/everything all day. We just talked for an hour and 16 minutes and I saw you called....

He wants my help with his school projects....

He likes talking to me.....

I love him.... He says he loves me....

He's getting to be a real pain-in-the-___.

WHAT SHOULD I DO?