

Finally someone is starting to get it. Many of those kids are getting drugs meant for adults. Most of the kids getting the drugs came into the system normal, but were incorrectly (on purpose) diagnosed as "special needs" kids in order to pump up the revenue flow from the feds (can run between $75,000 and $125,000). They are then given "therapy" for non-existent mental and emotional problems that can ultimately cause them to develop them (cha-ching). I urge you to check the PBS records on the South Dakota racket that goes on all over the country, starting with the bogus evaluation of kids snatched by DCS. Go to YouTube and Find the Daniel Sheehan tape on the South Dakota Lakota Indian kid racket. It's a must view video. Go on Face Book and just put in Arizona DCS or CPS and find out what is going on here. The drugging is just a small part of the picture. The people who have total control of the foster care racket in Tucson are affiliated with the world's largest pedophile ring and yet got an exclusive contract for 3 counties and they milk the federal dollars. The foster care racket is so lucrative that they will obstruct people wanting to adopt, trying to force them into being foster parents instead. I know because they did it to me and DCS refuses to step in. Cronyism. This is the biggest nationwide racket going. It's a RICO case and the feds refuse to investigate. Almost all the kids are illegally taken without court orders or warrants, despite the fact that legally they can only snatch a child if they know at the moment the child is in eminent danger of death or serious harm. Otherwise, they have to go before a judge and show evidence and swear to some danger. They don't. If they obeyed the law more than half the kids in custody would not be. Most of the so-called "non-profit" agencies sucking on the tit of the taxpayers are operated by former DCS people who maintain close relationships with those on the inside of DCS who feed them kids. The leader of the local "non-profit" with total control is leaving her job to take a job with DCS as they take away the adoption portion of the contract with this agency and put it under DCS control because of all the problems with the non-profit. They know this woman is the problem, but she has connections and obviously knows too much, so she gets to run the new state agency in Tucson. Cronyism. All this information has previously been given to reporters at your newspaper under a previous editor. This is an investigation that will take several news outlets to conduct. In December, a federal judge in Corpus Christi, Texas took over the corrupt Texas CPS that was doing all the same things as here. She appointed two respected experts to take over the agency and clean it up. Like here, the bureaucrats claimed to be over-worked because of all the kids, but they were over-worked because they were snatching lots of kids illegally to feed their cronies in the foster care racket. The court order there was the result of a law suit by Children's Rights, the same people now suing Arizona for exactly the same things. The Foundation for the Child Victims of the Family Courts is also doing law suits around the country and could tell you lots about Arizona. Someone at your paper needs to READ the 260 page Texas court order and look at the lawsuit here. Contact the Texas Tribune, which has followed that case closely. Go on Face Book and contact people. I was certified to adopt more than two years ago and never got to meet a single child available for adoption because I'm a whistle blower and refused to participate in the foster care racket. I was just forced to renew the process again and passed, but now DCS has a bureaucrat refusing to forward my paperwork to a judge for certification because they know I know too much and they are trying to wear me down. All they are doing is making me more determined to put an end to their racket and get their cronies in Tucson put out of business, which looks like it may happen.
